You are entitled to file an application for SNAP benefits even it appears that you are limited to getting benefits only for 3 months.

You may appeal the decision to limit your benefits if you think the local department of social services made a mistake in your case. Tell the local social services department you want to appeal or call 1-800-552-3431.

If you answered YES to any of the “Are you” questions at left, there is no limit on how long you may receive SNAP benefits as long as that condition applies to you.

If you answered NO to any of the “Are you” questions at left, then you may be eligible to get only 3 months of benefits within a 3-year period.

Note that the month you apply for SNAP benefits may not count in the 3-month limit

After getting SNAP benefits for 3 months, you must meet one of the “Are you” conditions at left or you will not be eligible for additional SNAP benefits until the end of the 3-year period.

If you start to work but then stop working, you must “Work” at least 80 hours within a 30-day period before you will be eligible for 3 additional months of benefits. “Work” here means to work for pay or in exchange for a benefit, such as rent; to volunteer; or to participate in a work program, such as VIEW.
